In Milan he shows a colossal of 500 bijoux and jewels with Artistar Jewels

Back Artistar Jewels, Milanese event that includes an exhibition and a competition dedicated to jewelry and bijoux or, better, how they define the organizers, sculptural ornaments. For 2019 those on show in Milan during the fashion week (February 9-24) will be even 500, all exhibited at Palazzo Bovara (Corso di Porta Venezia 51), over 700 square meters. The exhibition is open with free admission.

For the first time, agreements have been reached with realities outside Europe: Bini Galler in Australia, Ame Galler in Hong Kong and Alice Floriano in Brazil.

All the 14 galleries involved in the project represent a point of reference in the contemporary jewelry sector. On show there are also the creations of three protagonists of the world of art and jewelry: Turi Simeti, known for its extroversion of the Sixties; the German Ute Decker, sculptural jewelry author (among her clients there was also Zaha Hadid); geometric jewelry from the impressive structures of the French artist and designer Christophe Burger.

Among the over 400 applications received from all over the world, the scientific committee of Artistar Jewels has selected 140 artists: gold, silver, titanium, leather, fabric, polymers, diamonds, quartz, even meteorite, lichen and nanosilver among the materials chosen for making the jewels in the competition.
