The fourth edition of contemporary jewellery exhibition Artistar Jewels will be held for the first time in the prestigious Giureconsulti Palace in Milan during the Milan Fashion Week. Slated from February 23 to 26, some 142 international designers from all over the world will take part showcasing 400 creations, mostly never seen before, from over 30 different countries.

Founded in 2012 by designer Enzo Carbone, Artistar Jewels is an event that is considered a benchmark in the contemporary jewellery scenario. It also serves as an international showcase for well-known artists and a springboard for emerging creative talent.

The participants display unique pieces or a small series of high artistic value, including technical experimentation and stylistic research. Artistar Jewels is a project with the aim of spreading the culture of contemporary jewellery in keeping with market trends.

It also holds a jewellery contest in Italy, and is among the few in the world that is based on the latest evolution of contemporary jewels and offers an opportunity to artists to sell their creations through an online shopping platform – www.artistarsewels.com

Judged by an eminent jury consisting of jewellery historians, stylists, editors, fashion journalists and bloggers, the three winners will have the chance to participate for free in Artistar Jewels 2018.

Enzo Carbone, founder of Artistar, says, "I'm very proud of the results we have achieved in these last four years. The contemporary jewellery scenario is growing and Artistar is a one-of-a-kind project that offers visibility and business opportunities at all levels." ■
